when I planned to retire before this is the business that made it possible

Starting with borrowed money, in just eight years I gained financial security, sold out at a profit and retired.

"Not until I was forty did I make up my mind that I was going to retire before ten years had passed. I knew I couldn't do it on a salary, no matter how good. I knew I couldn't do it working for others. It was perfectly obvious to me that I had to start a business of my own. But that posed a problem. What kind of business? Most of my money was tied up. Temporarily I was broke. But, when I found the business I wanted I was able to start it for a small amount of borrowed money.

"To pyramid this investment into retirement in less than ten years seems like magic, but in my opinion any man in good health who has the same ambition and drive that motivated me, could achieve such a goal. Let me give you a little history.

"I finished high school at the age of 18 and got a job as a shipping clerk. My next job was butchering at a plant that processed boneless beef. Couldn't see much future there. Next, I got a job as a Greyhound Bus Driver. The money was good. The work was pleasant, but I couldn't see it as leading to retirement. Finally I took the plunge and went into business for myself.

"I managed to raise enough money with my savings to invest in a combination motel, restaurant, grocery, and service station. It didn't take long to get my eyes opened. In order to keep that business going my wife and I worked from dawn to dusk, 20 hours a day, seven days a week. Putting in all those hours didn't match my idea of independence and it gave me no time for my favorite sport—golf! Finally we both agreed that I should look for something else.

"I found it. Not right away. I investigated a lot of businesses offered as franchises. I felt that I wanted the guidance of an experienced company—wanted to have the benefit of the plans that had brought success to others, plus the benefit of running my own business under an established name that had national recognition.

"Most of the franchises offered were too costly for me. Temporarily all my capital was frozen in the motel. But I found that the Duraclean franchise offered me exactly what I had been looking for.

"I could start for a small amount. (Today, only $1985 starts a Duraclean dealership, and the company will finance the balance of the total $5900 cost, without interest or finance charges.) I could work it as a one-man business to start, and operate from my home. No office or shop or other overhead, no salaries to pay. Equipment would fit in my car trunk. (I bought the truck later, out of profits). Best of all, there was no ceiling on my earnings. I could build a business as big a true story

by John B. Haikey

as my ambition and energy dictated. I could put on as many men as I needed to cover any volume. I could make a profit on every man working for me. And I could build little by little, or as fast as I wished.

"So, I started. I took the wonderful training furnished by the company. When I was ready I followed the simple plan outlined in the training. During the first period I did all the service work myself. By doing it myself, I could make much more per hour than I had ever made on a salary. Later, I would hire men, train them, pay them well, and still make an hourly profit on their time that made my idea of retirement possible—I had joined the country club and now I could play golf whenever I wished.

"What is this wonderful business? It's Duraclean. And what is Duraclean? It's an improved, space-age process for cleaning upholstered furniture, rugs and tacked down carpets. It not only cleans but it enlivens and sparkles up the colors. It does not wear down the fiber or drive dirt into the base of the rug as machine scrubbing does. Instead it lifts out the dirt by means of an absorbent dry foam.

"Furniture dealers and department stores refer their customers to the Duraclean Specialist. Insurance men say Duraclean can save them money on fire claims. Hotels, motels, specialty shops and big stores make annual contracts for keeping their carpets and furniture fresh and clean. One Duraclean Specialist signed a contract for over $40,000 a year for just one hotel.

"Well, that's the business I was able to start with such a small investment. That's the business I built up over a period of eight years. And, that's the business I sold out at a substantial profit before I was fifty."

Would you like to taste the freedom and independence enjoyed by Mr. Haikey? You can. Let us send you the facts. Mail the coupon, and you'll receive all the details, absolutely without obligation. No salesman will ever call on you. When you receive our illustrated booklet, you'll learn how we show you STEP BY STEP how to get customers; and how to have your customers get you more customers from their recommendations.

With no obligation, we'll mail you a 24-page brochure explaining the business. Then you, and you alone, in the privacy of your home, can decide. Don't delay. Get the facts before your location is taken by someone else. Mail the coupon, now.

We teach your 10 fingers to make beautiful music

Free booklets reveal the secret of teaching yourself to play the guitar, the piano, or spinet organ—the “right” way.

Many people are content to “fake their way” through the tunes they love. Strumming a few chords or pecking at a few keys. And it’s such a pity.

Your fingers could make beautiful music if you gave them the chance.

They could be playing folk or rock. Classical or pop. Hymns or spirituals. Jazz or ballads. All your favorite songs.

So why miss out on the thrill of making your own music? Give yourself a chance to become as good as you really could be! You can teach yourself to play the “right” way — at home — in much less time than you might imagine.

Play “right” from the start

Thousands of people like you have taught themselves to play with the U.S. School of Music courses. By mail. And you can too.

The secret lies in our clear, step-by-step, word-and-picture instruction method. It teaches you to play the right way. Without gimmicks. You learn to read and play notes ... so you’ll be able to play practically any song, merely by looking at its sheet music.

But how do you know you’re doing it right? Easy. A lot of the songs you practice first are simple tunes you’ve heard many times. And since you already know how these tunes are supposed to sound, you can tell immediately when you’ve “got them right.”

Then you go on to more advanced pieces. By this time you can tell if your notes and timing are right, even without ever having heard the songs before. Sooner than you might think possible, you’ll be able to play the kind of music you like.

You learn in spare time, in the privacy and comfort of your own home. There’s no one standing over you to make you nervous. And because you teach yourself, you can set your own pace. There’s no clock-watching private teacher at $4 to $10 per hour to worry about. You take as much time mastering any lesson as you wish.

It’s really such a marvelous way to learn. In fact, Jeffrey Livingston wrote to tell us, “The course was excellent. I knew almost nothing about playing an instrument before I enrolled.”

KING'S COURT

By Peter King

WELCOME TO THE debut issue of Pro Wrestling Illustrated.

For those familiar with wrestling magazines, we hope to become an essential part of your wrestling library. For those new to the world of wrestling journalism, we expect to be an old friend in a very short time.

We hope Pro Wrestling Illustrated will become your favorite magazine. If you have any comments, send them to: PWI; Box 48; Rockville Ctr., NY 11571.

Perhaps a few words of introduction are necessary. The job of a wrestling magazine is not to merely report on what you see on television or at the arena. It is to dig deep beneath the surface, to bring to light the story which would otherwise remain buried. This requires a staff of editors, reporters and photographers with uncommon skills. Pro Wrestling Illustrated has such a staff.

Managing Editor Bill Apter is respected world-wide for his contributions to wrestling. As a photographer, Bill has advanced wrestling photo-journalism from infancy to an art form. His photo studies of men like Bob Backlund and Bruno Sammartino have won numerous awards.

No magazine can exist without a veteran reporter. Matt Brock is ours. He is the best in the world. 'Nuff said.

Associate Editor Randy Gordon believes wrestling must be what it once was—a scientific battle between two superb athletes. His mission is to cut the cancer of rulebreaking from the body of wrestling. Each month Gordon will report on his battle against the evil elements of wrestling.

Putting everything in its proper perspective is the job of Gary Morgenstein. His incisive comments on the wrestling scene will appear every month. Morgenstein's qualifications for this difficult assignment are enormous. He is an author and philosopher, but most of all, he is a friend of wrestling.

Steve Farhood is a young man who turned down the prestigious Julius Scholarship of Huxley University to work for Pro Wrestling Illustrated. After graduating first in his class from a top journalism college, Farhood was swamped with offers from every top American newspaper. But he decided to make wrestling his life's work. I think both Farhood and wrestling are enriched by the young man's courageous choice.

Finally, there is Dan Shocket. Shocket has made his reputation by supporting the wrestlers fans call "bad guys." I know you will almost never agree with Shocket's views. But I believe his voice should be heard. Wrestling fans are intelligent enough to make up their own minds.

Every month, aided by numerous photographers and correspondents, this uniquely talented staff will bring you the world of professional wrestling. Now, just sit back and enjoy. Because this first issue of Pro Wrestling Illustrated, as well as all succeeding issues, belongs to you, the wrestling fan. □

RINGSIDE

With Bill Apter

NO MATTER WHERE Greg Valentine goes, whether to an arena, a movie or a restaurant, Chief Jay Strongbow is just a few steps away. "I'm following him everywhere," says Strongbow. "It's making him a nervous wreck. I just want to ruin his life like he ruined mine when he broke me leg. Now that I'm okay, it's his turn to suffer!"

Mil Mascaras accepted a match in Texas against former NWA champion Terry Funk. Mil admits that Funk is just fooling everyone by saying he wants to leave wrestling and stay in the Hollywood movie scene. "I can tell his heart is still with the sport," notes the popular masked star. "He's not going to quit so easily." Mil adds that Funk has been one of his five most aggressive opponents.

Can Rick Steamboat win the United States heavyweight championship back from Ric Flair? That is the question even Steamboat can't answer. "Ric Flair is my biggest challenge and I can't say yes, I can beat him anytime," young Steamboat states. "Yes, I want the title back, but it's easy to say that. Flair wants to keep that title more than life itself. He's not going to drop his guard for one moment in his matches against me."

Garvin. Bad feelings flow freely between the two. Jim is turning to Buddy Rogers, not Kox for advice. This has also triggered a hot feud between Rogers and Kox. Kox is now being booed by fans in Florida. He had been a fan favorite for quite some time.

Gary Hart's duo of Mark Lewin and Spoiler work very well as a tag

Chief Jay Strongbow (left) is following Greg Valentine wherever the blond rulebreaker goes. Strongbow wants revenge because Valentine broke his leg. Spoiler (above) has been teaming with Mark Lewin. But they are not friends.

Georgia tag team champions Ole Anderson and Ivan Koloff have credited Dusty Rhodes. They won't say he is a great wrestler, but they agree that Dusty is a man who will never back down from anyone. "The fat boy has got a lot of guts," Anderson admits.

Killer Kari Kox has had a major disagreement with "protege" Jim team, but rumors are circulating that they are not friends. According Hart, they don't have to be buddies. "What they do outside the arena is their own business," he points out. "As long as they win matches and make me a lot of money, I couldn't care less about their personal lives."

A—ON— ASSIGNMENT

BY STEVEN FARHOOD

"When your bags are always packed,
the stars don't seem to shine,
Night turns into day on endless airport lines
Don't make many friends, you'll always say goodbye,
For the road is hard and lonely, and knows no alibi."

WHEN MATT BROCK called me into his office, I was petrified. The walls smelled of old liquor, like the pool hall in Brooklyn my father never let me go to. Brock could see my frantic state. He quickly made his point. When Matt has something to say, he is as subtle as the Japanese at Pearl Harbor.

"Kid, you've been with us for a few months now," Brock began, "and we like the way you're coming along. I was talking with Pete [Editor-in-Chief Peter King] and I suggested we expand your responsibilities. You know I'm getting kind of stuffy in my advancing years, and I'd like you to help me cover some of the out-of-town stuff."

"From now on, there'll be a story for you to track down, or a match for you to cover on the road. Your expenses will be picked up, but you'd better bring back good copy."

I left the office shaking. I'm not sure whether I was happy or upset. But I did know that the experiences would be interesting. After all, I had never been out of New York before!

I threw together a few necessities (toothbrush, Cepacol mouthwash, Levi jeans, Converse sneakers, and pajamas) and took off for my first stop, the unique metropolis of New Orleans, Louisiana.

I was immediately faced with a crushing conflict. Matt Brock gave me a few addresses on Bourbon Street. He said it was essential that I visit them for a good time. But when I told my mom about Matt's suggestions, she told me to stay away. God knows what kind of places they are!

Anyway, I checked into a first-class hotel, ordered a Coke via room-service, and called Mr. Wrestling II on the phone.

"How are you, deuce?" I

DRESSING ROOM

CONFIDENTIAL

With Randy Gordon

MOST PEOPLE REGARD an investigative reporter as the Sherlock Holmes of the journalism industry. A minority consider an investigative reporter to be nothing more than a prying, meddling, despised, unwelcome snoop. I don't care how anybody views investigative reporting. It is my life.

It makes no difference how fans, promoters, or wrestlers feel about me or my job. One long decade in this business has taught me that what I do is necessary. And appreciated. I cannot possibly please every wrestler, promoter and fan with each move I make and with every word I write. I do not try to. My job is to report the facts. All of them. The truth often can hurt.

Many times, there is a story within a story. The main point of interest, the one that is right out in the open, is the one that is easy to get. Lazy journalists prefer to report on such a story. There is little work for them to do. They observe and write. It is the digging and uncovering of further information that creates top wrestling coverage. That is what I do best.

Investigative reporting is the most glamorous form of reporting, though glamor is not what I seek. The facts are what I am after.

Not every man or woman was born to be a journalist. Not every journalist was born to be an investigative reporter. When I first became interested in investigative reporting, the wise old owl of wrestling journalism, Matt Brock, gave me a stern warning. "Investigative reporting can be hazardous to your health," he said.

Fred Blassie, a dangerous man, is a member of Randy Gordon's most-wanted list. Randy leads a crusade against rulebreakers and their managers.

Matt's words floated weightlessly inside my head for many months. I didn't take him seriously. By that time, my own lack of caution had caused me problems. I had been burned by The Sheik, nearly butchered by miracles happen in their daily lives!

You'll see how Vern, a man who likes to give a lot of expensive parties, was always short of cash until he discovered the amazing WITCH'S MONEY JAR—now all he has to do is dip in, for it brings him an endless flow of cash! Evelyn, a waitress, was always lending money to friends, and was always broke. Finally, she placed her last dollar on the table, and worked the MONEY MAGNET SPELL over it. All at once, dozens of people who had borrowed money from her, rushed to pay her back!

Hank was perpetually broke. One night he got together with some friends, and they decided to cast the MONEY SPELL. The very next day, Hank received in the mail a check for some $250 worth of insurance. (He had never heard of the company that sent the check, he was not insured with them, and had never even made a claim—but he accepted the money.) Another member of the group that used the spell, a 40-year-old secretary, received an automobile as a gift! All the other members of the group received amazing windfalls of money, as well! You'll see how Dexter, a retiree, lives RENT FREE and receives $200 a week at the age of 78, with a secret you'll find in this Witch Book! You'll see how Claudine, a secretary, was able to wear the finest, most expensive furs—FREE—and spend weekends at an expensive ski lodge in the mountains, where she met a wonderful man! How Ruth L., a widow—with nothing but a small pension, and a little savings—received her dream house, by using a simple 5-minute ritual on page 38 of this book! Using the same Witchcraft secrets, YOU can achieve peace of mind and freedom from money worries for the rest of your life!

YOU CAN HEAL YOURSELF AS WITCHES DO!

Feeling sick today? Plagued by a lot of troublesome illnesses? Perhaps some relative is sick and constantly demanding your attention? Or perhaps it is even a pet that needs help? With the MAGIC POWER OF WITCHCRAFT, you can cure anything, say authors Gavin and Yvonne Frost: "In our experience... we have not found a single incurable disease!"

• ANDY DISSOLVES A GALLSTONE!—Andy M. developed gallstones. When his illness became too troublesome to ignore, he went to a doctor. Urine tests revealed that he was chronically alkaline. His body was badly out of balance. Using this Witchcraft method to restore balance to the mind and body—in a short while, X-rays showed that he had no more gallstones! Andy never again suffered the excruciating pain of passing stones!

In the same way, say Gavin and Yvonne Frost, almost all illness can be prevented. You are actually employing an ancient Witchcraft method to remove diseased tissue! Even if you do not have any belief in the results, the power will work for you!

One woman, who had been in a wheelchair for 26 years, due to polio and arthritis, used the Witchcraft healing method, and reported that she had no pain and could walk and garden again! A man reported that his son's deep 3rd degree burns miraculously healed overnight!

• SO SIMPLE A CHILD USES IT!—A 4-year-old girl asked if she could try to heal a man who was limping—due to a torn ligament—with this simple Witchcraft healing method. In a matter of moments, she started her chant, laying her hands on the weak ankle. The man was miraculously cured! To skeptics, this should be convincing PROOF that anyone can use it!

AMAZING POWER CAN BE YOURS!

Whether you want infinite wealth, or just a comfortable new home, financial security, fine possessions, love, companionship, good health and vigor, power to control others, secret knowledge, protection from evil, or anything else, the magic power of Witchcraft can bring it to you quickly, easily and automatically! It's the easiest thing in the world!

• HOW TO SEE INTO THE FUTURE!—Would you like to be able to see the future? You CAN with the magic Black Mirror you'll see how to make on page 23. All you need is some ink and a bowl of water. Then use the chant on this page, and you will be able to see many things. One man uses it to read tomorrow's newspaper. YOU can use it to check the stock market or that important horse race!

Factory owners kept their employees in dreaded sweatshops, because these masters knew they must not allow their workers to realize that they need not labor their lives away. By using these Witchcraft secrets, you too can change your life and gain health, wealth, someone to love—or anything else—surely, swiftly and automatically!

FAIR BETWEEN FALLS

Pro Wrestling Illustrated welcomes your comments on any of our stories or columns. Send your letters to:

PWI
Box 48
Rockville Centre,
N.Y. 11571

(Once word of our new magazine, PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED, leaked out, we were flooded by letters from people in wrestling. Some congratulated us. Some insulted us. In the tradition of true wrestling journalism, we dare to print both sides).

When rulebreaker Ric Flair saw our first issue, he wanted to know why he wasn't on the cover (right). Bruno Sammartino (below) is looking forward to reading PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED. Many wrestlers heard about our new magazine and received advance copies.

CONGRATULATIONS!

I have just received my advance copy of PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED. Once again, your talented staff showed why it's tops in wrestling. A fine job, guys.

RICK STEAMBOAT
Richmond, Va.

You know, I admire any new venture. Your new magazine is no exception. It is warming to my heart to see you have maintained the same sterling quality as before. As a wrestler, I welcome you aboard.

BRUNO SAMMARTINO
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Check out this new and spiffy mag! When the Dream gives his approval to a project, you know it is deserving. I don't mince words. This is a fine piece of journalism. Congratulations.

DUSTY RHODES
Tampa, Fla.

AND BOOS!

When are you dudes gonna give up and get a real job? Finished your newest rag and nearly retched everything I ever owned. What kind of lies you printing? When are you lames gonna start on the right side of things? Promise me you won't clutter up my mailbox with your throw-away rag again!

JOHN VALIANT
New York, N.Y.

I have never been exposed to such outlandish foolery as this so-called magazine. In my travels around the world, in every nation, in every culture, with all manner of people, this is the lowest piece of paper I have ever bothered to read. Except for Dan Shocket, it appears you've retained the same group of boobs. Won't get my bread.

GRAND WIZARD
Boston, Mass.

How come I'm not on the cover? How can you expect to sell more than seven copies unless you put the beautiful one, the great one, the sex symbol of North America, on the cover? I expect you to rectify this mistake or I'll bop your photographer next time he comes near me.

RIC FLAIR
Raleigh, N.C.

FINAL WORDS

I am proud to be in your latest magazine PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED. As expected, it is a credit to your talented and ambitious staff.

ANDRE THE GIANT
Philadelphia, Pa.

Distortions and bullcrap, the kind we can combat with our fists and our spirit and our dedication. When my boys and I are done with your fair-haired nice guys, the wrestling world will know what is truth and what is lie.

THE MORGENSTEIN REPORT.....

By Gary Morgenstein

I AM PLEASED to report that the state of wrestling is good. Quite good. That comment is predicated not on any bias toward scientific stars or rulebreakers. It is based solely on my observation of the past year.

Since taking over Michael Kape's column a little over a year ago, I've had the the sport. Some turn rule-breaker, others turn scientific.

Either way, they infuse wrestling with fresh blood and insert a revitalizing influence which every sport needs. They run the gamut from Tommy Rich in Georgia to Gino Hernandez in Texas. Men as diffuse as John Studd and David Von Erich contend for, contain their opposite philosophies.

They are wrong. But a columnist cannot convince them of that. Only through their own efforts will the knowledge, indeed, the truth, that wrestling needs both good and bad enter their systems.

I've had many clashes with rulebreakers since I began this Tommy Rich infuses Georgia wrestling with fresh blood. His wrestling is fast, exciting and disciplined.

Whether they are loved or hated, they are noticed. That is essential.

LOOKING AT...

Matt Brock:

FOR THOSE FANS unfamiliar with me and my work, this is a brief introduction. I'm Matt Brock. I've been writing about wrestling for, well, a long, long time. In case anyone thinks I'm old, I was a boy wonder. Since I never lie, I won't say how old I am.

My integrity speaks for itself. Matter of fact, it sometimes speaks for me better than I can. That's only after a long night researching a subject in a local establishment.

This month, I'm looking at Jerry Lawler. Other months I may be forced to squint or peer, depending on the quality of imports from Scotland. But that's another tale.

"I'm King of the Hill, King Of Tennessee," bragged Lawler. "There's no one in this region who can compare with me."

Wrestlers range from the humble to the boastful. I've found the excessively modest ones to be playing their own trumpets with a different decibel level. Those who have to toot their own horn are, well, why do they have to do it for themselves?

"I don't get the press or attention I deserve," Lawler insisted.

Another common complaint.

Jerry Lawler, the king of Tennessee wrestling. Lawler dominates all competitors in his state. He claims no one can compare with him.

JERRY LAWLER

Lawler shows little respect for AWA champion Nick Bockwinkel (above). Jerry displays his strength and scientific knowledge with a headlock against Rick Steamboat (right). If Lawler ran for mayor of Memphis, few Tennessee natives would bet against him.

This time it has the kernel of validity.

Lawler is vastly underrated. Naturally, wrestlers always feel they are being short-sheeted in coverage. This time, Lawler's right.

"Year after year, I've proven myself to be tops in both ability and fan appeal," said the handsome star.

I don't know about fan appeal. What the fans like or dislike has surprised me. Just when I think I have modulated the pulse, I'm shown wrong.

"Who's better than me? Bockwinkel? Hah, that's a good one," Lawler said sneeringly. "You think Harley Race has anything on me?"

"Come on. Break it up anyway you like. Lawler has it all over Dusty Rhodes. I'm better looking than Backlund. Got a better body than Bruno.

"When you people gonna wake up?"

As I said, egotism bores me. Maybe 'cause I'm such a humble guy. But Lawler has a case.

While the public fawns and faints over Bockwinkel, Backlund and the like, Lawler defeats them all down in Memphis.

"I'm telling you, I won this town," he said.

Quite true. Lawler's presence is everywhere. Lawler's posters flourish and emerge from many a store window. Lawler T-shirts are worn by everyone. Even the liquor stores display his picture.

But that's another story. □

BOXING & WRESTLING

After five issues, WRESTLING magazine changed its name to BOXING & WRESTLING. Continuing its high standard in wrestling, the addition of boxing stories made it one of the most popular sports magazines of the '50s. Some of the back issues listed in this ad can be obtained now by the general public for the first time in more than 25 years. As you would expect, supplies are very, very limited.

The Harley Race Story:

Often, men are much more than they seem to be. Such is the case with the complex NWA champion, Harley Race. More than just a greedy champion, Race sheds light upon human instinct and the very nature of professional wrestling

"HATRED IN MY HEART"

HARLEY RACE IS an interesting man. It takes a severe case of clouded vision to view him merely as a crusty old rulebreaker who wrestles only for love of the almighty dollar. Race is the NWA champion. But further examination into the man's heart and soul uncovers a startling truth. Harley Race is a creation of the sport he rules.

"I guess you could say I was sort of a wimpy kid," Race revealed. "I went through grammar school pretty easily, but when I got past grade school, the trouble began."

Harley Race displays his aggressiveness by stomping on Pat O'Connor (below). A bloody Race brawls with Pedro Morales (right). Race has an excellent working knowledge of scientific maneuvers. He bodyslams Don Muraco (far right). But to remain champion, Race says he has to stay mad.

"My parents always taught me to stay out of other people's business. I always did. But soon enough people were taking advantage of me. I was kind of a big kid, but when other kids made fun of me or slapped me around, I just ignored them. But it hurt inside. Boy, did it hurt inside.

"So one day I was getting it pretty good from a tough kid. I don't know what made me do it, but I just slugged him. It felt good. He didn't fall down, but he did have blood running from his nose. He apologized. I didn't get no more horse-crap from those kids after that."

Race had learned his first lesson. His self-respect and pride have not wavered since that first right hand exploded on the bully's nose. But the harsh realities of adulthood left Race as confused as the timid grammar school kid he once was.

"I knew wrestling was the career for me," he recalled. "I studied hard. I put lots of spare time into reading about the old greats of wrestling. The moves they used were so classic. The sportsmanship and sense of fair play was so beautiful. I mean, I used to get really off on the rules of the sport. I know it's hard to believe, looking at me today."

The NWA king began as a scientific wrestler. He was successful. But success was not enough. Race needed to be special. He wanted to be known. And most of all, he had a burning ambition to be the best. Wrestling champion of the world.

"One thing was clear after about two months on the circuit," Race said. "If I wanted to run around for a few years and make decent bread, but remain 'pretty much a nobody, I would've stayed scientific. But to stay that way, I would have been forced to swallow my pride hundreds of times. The promoters, the fans, hell, even the other wrestlers take advantage of scientific wrestlers.

"I'll never forget the nights I spent alone on the road, pondering my existence. I turned to philosophy. I turned to astrology. I couldn't find the answer. I knew deep in my heart that hurting people was wrong. But I also knew I wanted to be somebody in this life. I wanted to be a champion. I knew I'd have to become more aggressive."

Watching Race wrestle today is a unique experience. Gone is the self-doubt that marked the rookie of many years ago. Gone is the caution that epitomized the new champion on a quivering throne. Gone is the mercy, the pity and the care. Harley Race stands alone. After many years of struggle and frustration, he can stand at the top of the mountain and scream, "I am the best. I am the champion."

"There's still hatred in my heart," he commented. "I like being number one too much to risk my position in any way. And if I want to stay where I am, I gotta be mean, cruel, shrewd, and selfish. Maybe it's not how mama and poppa Race brought up their son to be, but that is what wrestling has done to me. And you know what? I like the feeling. If I ever find a soft spot in my gut, I'll hang up the trunks forever." □

OFF THE TOP ROPE

By Dan Shocket

MY NAME IS Dan Shocket. I am a wrestling columnist and reporter. For those of you who have never heard of me, a brief introduction may be necessary. I like the aggressive wrestlers. Men like Bockwinkel, Sheik, Patera, Flair, and Graham (Superstar, not clumsy Mike or ancient Eddie). Most fans, who possess no more intelligence than a dried cucumber, find my views detestable. As such, my mailbox is constantly flooded with letters. In this column, I will answer as many of them as I can.

Dear Creep,

How can you say those awful things about Rick Steamboat? He's my favorite wrestler and is always a gentleman. You keep insulting him, saying he can't wrestle without bribing referees. He's the best around. All my friends agree.

I think you're jealous.

ELOISE MAXIE
Savannah, Ga.

One reader believes Dan Shocket is jealous of Rick Steamboat (above). Shocket despises scientific wrestlers.

Dear Eloise,

How could I possibly be jealous of anyone who has fans like you? All I have to say is that you never once in your letters mention Steamboat's supposed wrestling skills. I guess your mother told you never to lie. Too bad she didn't also teach you manners.

Shocket:

Look at the record! You said Dusty Rhodes was a better wrestler when he was a rulebreaker. The record shows Dusty has won more matches against better opponents as a scientific wrestler than as a rulebreaker. What do you have to say to that?

DAVID STROTHER
Greenwich, Conn.

Shocket claims Dusty Rhodes pays off the referees to win his matches.

Strother:

You get what you pay for. Dusty has put many referees' kids through college. I'd never say he isn't generous with his bribes.

We, the working press, like Rick Steamboat. We see him as an exciting, talented wrestler, and an intelligent, fine young man. We are often critical of Steamboat because of our intense interest in his career. Please, Rick, heed our words in this letter

AN OPEN LETTER TO U.S. CHAMPION RICK STEAMBOAT

Steamboat has wrestled sensation-ally against Harley Race (left). Rick must curb his temper if he hopes to be a major champion. Battling former tag team partner Paul Jones (below), Rick shows no mercy. Steamboat has not fully recovered from Jones' betrayal.

DEAR RICK,

Before you leap to any premature conclusions, hear us out. Remember, we write this with your best interests in mind. Remember how highly we regard you. Remember the honest relationship we have forged over the years.

Forget Ric Flair. Forget the United States heavyweight title. Or else forget your career.

Your matches with Flair are no longer mere matches.

They've gone far beyond a feud. They've entered into an obsession. Perhaps Flair can properly incorporate obsession into his warped, mutated soul.

But you can't. Or rather, shouldn't. This has nothing to do with ability. Lord only knows the huge amounts of untapped skills which lie beneath your muscled exterior.

Nor does it have anything to do with toughness. Time and again, you've demonstrated an amazing capacity to brawl with the best.

Yes, Rick. Time and again. That's the point. You've wrestled Flair too often. You're slipping into sloppy habits molded by the repetitious bloodbaths you've endured with Flair. You've beaten him. He's beaten you.

There's nothing left to prove. Go on to other opponents.

Ah, your title beckons, doesn't it? The U.S. Title you worked so hard to win was BACK IN THE dressing room corner, Bob Backlund stands alone. He's polite, but never friendly. There's an invisible wall between the champion and the rest of the world.

It was only a while ago that Bob was everybody's friend. Easygoing, likeable, wanting to like others, Bob seemed to be a champion who managed to remain as one of the guys. People sought him out and Bob enjoyed their companionship.

Today, Bob allows no one to get close. He seems to evaluate every sentence, as if deciding how far the speaker can be trusted. He neither seeks nor takes advice. Bob Backlund is a man alone at the top.

Why the change? Everyone seems to have a theory. No one claims to have the answer. But every theory seems to center around Peter Maiivia.

Bob Backlund shakes hands with his good friend, Andre the Giant. Does Bob fear that Andre will turn on him like Peter Maiivia did? Maiivia was Bob's best friend.

"Bob respected Peter as if Maivia were a hero," said Arnold Skoaland, Bob's manager. "He admired Maivia's integrity. Bob trusted Maivia with secrets, fears and questions. Maivia knows more about Bob than Bob knows about himself. And after all that trust, all that affection, Maivia became a rulebreaker. All of a sudden, Bob's closest friend became his enemy. That does something to a man. Bob's afraid to let anyone that close again."

Others feel there is more to it than that. Former champion Bruno Sammartino noted, "Backlund is very young to have the responsibilities of being champion. Everyone wants what he has. A champion has to realize that even his best

THE FEAR THAT HAUNT BOB

If 100 wrestlers were able to choose another grappler to switch places with, we'd bet 90 of them would choose the WWF champion, Bob Backlund. But now that we have uncovered Backlund's unrelenting nightmare, we doubt anyone in the world would want to be in his place friends would kill for his title. That makes a man suspicious. You can never forget that.

"You have to learn, though, how to keep friends in spite of that. It's hard to explain. You can never ignore that they want your title, but you learn how to make allowances. Bob was doing very well until Maivia became a rulebreaker. Now he's afraid to make the allowances every champion must make. I don't blame him. I think back when I was his age. If my best friend turned on me, I don't know if I could have handled it.

"Backlund is doing incredibly well, considering. But incredibly well just isn't good enough. I hope he can break out of his protective shell. I keep wondering if I could have. I don't know. I don't know about Backlund, either."

It takes constant struggle for Backlund to overcome his naturally friendly nature. The fear of getting too close to anyone keeps him from reaching out to others.

WILL ALWAYS BACKLUND

Mil Mascaras and Dusty Rhodes pose together (right). Mascaras is determined against the rugged Mr. Fuji (above).

NEITHER MIL MAS-CARAS nor Dusty Rhodes is a saint. Both have been involved in irrational feuds, often instigated by rulebreakers. They've had their share of brutal moments. They've done things they are ashamed of.

MASCARAS & RHODES:

DOES EACH MAN PRAY FOR THE OTHER'S DOOM?

In the intense, ambitious world of wrestling, egos and personalities sometimes clash as often as bodies inside the squared circle. Dusty Rhodes and Mil Mascaras, two decent men, find themselves locked in an inevitable battle for the fans' love

But they are not capable of harboring evil thoughts for very long. Their quick eruptions of temper are often followed by quicker apologies.

That's what makes this story so unsettling. To accuse Mascaras or Rhodes with such self-centered concerns would seem unnatural. It is not.

The facts, indeed, the sheer logic of it makes this conclusion compelling.

Does each man pray for the other's doom?

Presently, the WWF is crowded with scientific stars. Champion Bob Backlund. Ivan Putski. Bruno Sammartino.

Dusty Rhodes.

Unfortunately, an alliance can only sustain a certain number of scientific wrestling personalities. Right now, the WWF has reached its limit.

There doesn't seem to be a problem. At least on the surface. Ah, but what of Mascaras' plans? Though it is not imminent, the masked man makes little effort to conceal his desire to return to the WWF.

"Yes, I always enjoy wrestling in the WWF. Everyone is so kind and knowledgeable there.

Especially, I like the fans," Mascaras said.

Here is where the equation is introduced. Bruno isn't about to leave. Nor is Putski. Surely not Backlund. Only one man's departure would make it possible for Mascaras to

Mil and Dusty make a brilliant tag team combination. They have teamed with tremendous success. But will the common desire to wrestle in the WWF separate them forever? Such an occurrence may be inevitable.

O.J. Simpson on an open football field. Willie Shoemaker on a streaking racehorse. Reggie Jackson hitting a 90-mile-per-hour fastball. Andre the Giant in a Battle Royal. Certain athletes are made for certain situations. And when Andre the Giant invaded the AWA, greatness was achieved

ANDRE DEFEATS THE AWA... ALL IN ONE NIGHT!

SOME WRESTLERS SPEND a lifetime battling the top stars of their chosen wrestling alliances. To brag that one has defeated the prime contenders over a period of years is a worthy boast.

If Andre the Giant were a braggart, he could easily top that claim. You see Andre didn't need years or months or even weeks to beat the best AWA mat stars.

All it took Andre was one night. One Battle Royal.

"I was sort of rushed," Andre said with a mischievous grin.

There was nothing casual about Andre's destruction of the wrestlers in this Battle Royal. And there was nothing airy about the quality of his opponents.

MIDWESTERN REPORT—

DAY BY DAY, the mats are covered with the dust of Nick Bockwinkel's empire. As yet, huge chunks from the throne have not been loosened. As yet, the crown is still perched atop his head.

But it is a perilous perch. Unmistakable signs of wear are creeping into his game.

Is the King finished?

"Finished? Does this look like I'm finished?" Bockwinkel screamed as he pointed to his massive upper body. "When are you guys going to stop bothering me with your damn, stupid idea?"

"Over the years, I've proven myself the greatest champion of all time. I am tough. I am fast. I

"And I need no one but myself to continue atop my kingdom," Bockwinkel said in quiet savagery.

No one but myself. Those four words, spoken in a whispering agitation, describe the dilemma Bockwinkel faces. Months ago, Bobby Heenan, manager of Bockwinkel and other top AWA rulebreakers, was suspended from the alliance after a run-in with president Stanley Blackburn.

For years, wrestling observers had insisted that Heenan was indispensable to Bockwinkel's continuing success. They said Heenan was the brilliant strategist. They said Bockwinkel was merely a muscular puppet.

Without Heenan, many felt Bockwinkel would fall apart.

"Heenan gave me advice, that's all, just advice," snapped Bockwinkel.

Heenan has become a festering sore to the AWA champion. Bockwinkel has struggled to achieve the recognition he feels is deserving. After three years as champion, after notable triumphs over the very best opponents the alliance has to offer, Bockwinkel does deserve acknowledgement as a superstar.

But is it ending?

In a bizarre way, those who

Flooded with business matters that were once handled by his manager, Bobby Heenan, Nick Bockwinkel has become a soft champion ready to be crushed. While his ring performances remain impressive, the AWA champion is a tired, confused warrior. Is the end of his title reign in sight?

USE OF FOREIGN OBJECT CHARGED IN LADD-STEAMBOAT CLASH

BY MATT BROCK

GREENSBORO, N.C.—Rick Steamboat claims his defeat at the hands of Ernie Ladd was caused by the Big Cat's illegal tactics.

"He used a foreign object," Rick contends, "a plastic knife he had hidden in his trunks. When we were wrestling in the corner, he reached into his trunks and pulled the knife out. He then smashed the thing right in my throat. I toppled over the ring ropes and was disqualified."

"I tried to get back in the ring but I couldn't breathe. My windpipe closed and I almost went unconscious. I should've expected something like that from Ladd."

FOREIGN OBJECT HIDDEN
Rick added that Ladd cleverly hid the weapon from the referee, which is why Ernie wasn't disqualified.

Enquirer photographer Bill Apter catches Ladd as he thrusts a foreign object into Steamboat's throat (left). To get the foreign object out of his trunks, Ladd usually pretends to be hurt while he reaches into his trunks (above).

When told of the accusation, Ladd replied, "That kind of stupid whining is just what you'd expect from somebody named Steamboat. I never use a foreign object because I don't need one. The punk just thinks I used a plastic knife because there was so much pain. Well, all the pain was caused by my great strength. Steamboat doesn't know what it's like to be hit by a strong man. I take that back. After wrestling me, he sure knows how it feels."

KOLOFF DEMANDS BACKLUND BE STRIPPED OF WWF CROWN

BY GARY MORGENSTEIN

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Former WWF champion Ivan Koloff has called upon the federation commissioners to strip reigning champion Bob Backlund of the WWF title.

CLAIMS COWARDICE

"Backlund ducks every top contender," said Koloff. "He and that serpent manager, Arnold Skoaland, are conspiring to deprive the legitimate contenders from legitimate title shots. Either the commissioners institute a round-robin tourney to determine Backlund's successor, or I settle this in the alley. Probably that's where Backlund belongs, atop a heap of garbage."

Koloff body-blocks Backlund during Madison Square Garden title tilt last September (above). Koloff says Backlund ducks the top contenders.

in Florida. Sources within the Florida NWA offices confirm that King shaves daily and applies a dangerous substance upon his bald pate.

SECRET INGREDIENT IS THE KEY

Allegedly, this substance burns the skin of foes. To prevent a similar problem from afflicting his scalp, King applies a milky, thick liquid to his head. An unconfirmed rumor speculates this substance is derived from lamb ligaments.

"BOCKWINKEL TO FALL BY AUGUST" CLAIMS GAGNE

BY PETER KING

DENVER, Col.—Nick Bockwinkel will fall by August! That startling prediction was voiced by former AWA champion Verne Gagne at a press conference Sunday.

TOO TIRED TO CONTINUE

"Bockwinkel is both mentally and physically exhausted," contended Gagne. "It's obviously that his game is faltering. The only question is who will be the one to beat him. But Bockwinkel will go by August."

PRESS CONFERENCE

(In each issue, a wrestler will be invited to a press conference. Three of our editors will ask questions on a wide range of subjects. What distinguishes this from other similar interviews is the prior stipulation that complete honesty will be demanded. This month, the interviewers are Managing Editor Bill Apter, Associate Editor Gary Morgenstein, and Associate Editor Dan Shocket. The man answering the questions is the Living Legend, former WWF champion Bruno Sammartino.)

BILL APTER: Bruno, thank you for offering this great Manhattan hotel suite as the site for the interview.

DAN SHOCKET: Yeah, Bruno, I have a great view of a laundromat from here.

GARY MORGENSTEIN: Just shut up, Shocket.

SAMMARTINO: Thank you, Gary. I would like to stick to wrestling and have a minimum of argument.

APTER: My first question concerns the current WWF champion. What's your opinion of Bob Backlund?

SAMMARTINO: You know, I was one of the first to predict Backlund as a coming star. Some guys have the special kind of skill which sets them apart. Backlund has strength, speed and intelligence.

"There is more to being champion than wearing the belt or beating contenders. You must act a certain way. Race does it. Even Bockwinkel does it. At this stage of his career, it is too early to say whether Backlund will become an unforgettable champion."

APTER: I detect some hesitation.

SAMMARTINO: There is more to being champion than wearing the belt or beating contenders. You must act a certain way. Race does it. Even Bockwinkel does it. At this stage of his career, it is too early to say whether Backlund will become an unforgettable champion.

SHOCKET: Speaking of champions, what about a great man like Ivan Koloff? Don't you think it's about time you conceded he is the superior wrestler?

SAMMARTINO: Doggone you, Shocket. That cheating, lying Russian dog is nothing but an alley fighter.

SHOCKET: Beat you, didn't he?

SAMMARTINO: By cheating.

SHOCKET: Oh, sir, everyone says they've been cheated. I have a video-tape of that bout. In fact, I show it at all of my dinner parties, and it clearly shows you were beaten fairly and squarely.

SAMMARTINO: No matter what you say, I know in my heart that he won by cheating.

SHOCKET: Are you now obsessed with beating Koloff?

SAMMARTINO: Not obsessed. A man has things he must do to prove he is a man. Beating Ivan Koloff is one of them for me.

MORGENSTEIN: A stirring response, Bruno. On my travels, I've found a common question about you. People are saying that Bruno Sammartino is preparing to regain his title. What does Bruno Sammartino say about that?

SAMMARTINO: Well, setting yourself to pursue a title is not a light decision. Much preparation should go into it. You must train a certain way, select certain opponents, live a certain life.

MORGENSTEIN: Aren't you doing that with the number of matches you've been taking?

SAMMARTINO: Only in quantity.

MORGENSTEIN: But you're wrestling all the top ones.

SAMMARTINO: Not quite. I have not wrestled the champion. Until you wrestle the champion, you are not after the title.

"Well, I don't know if this would qualify as a gripe. Well, yes it would. The very lifeblood of our sport is the young talent. Unfortunately, many young wrestlers are not being encouraged enough."

"There should be more training camps. There should be more programs to train youngsters. Maybe some of the veteran wrestlers should band together and form more camps."

APTER: Bruno, any gripes you'd like to get off your chest?

SAMMARTINO: Well, I don't know if this would qualify as a gripe. Well, yes it would. The very lifeblood of our sport is the young talent. Unfortunately, many young wrestlers are not being encouraged enough.

There should be more training camps. There should be more programs to train youngsters. Maybe some of the veteran wrestlers should band together and form more camps. Even the fine promoters across the country should look into ways to promote young talent.

Remember, without young talent we would have no wrestling.

APTER: And without Bruno Sammartino, wrestling would not be what it is today. Thank you, Bruno.

SAMMARTINO: My pleasure. □

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

Every month, our reporters will compile wrestlers' most revealing quotes. Often catching the grapplers with their guards down, our reporters will work endlessly in obtaining interesting quotes on a variety of subjects

LOU ALBANO

"Rules are for losers. Ever hear of anyone who won by following the rules? How do you think rules got started? In the beginning, there was nothing. Through trial and error, they came up with rules. But they can be changed. That's what I do. Change the rules for the betterment of Lou Albano."

BRUNO SAMMARTINO

"You know, wrestling is a great sport. I remember when I was a rookie in the 1960s. An old man, I think he was a trainer or something, approached me in the dressing room one night and said, 'Bruno, you give wrestling your all and she'll reward you.' Doggone it, I've given my life to wrestling and I haven't been disappointed."

CHIEF JAY STRONGBOW

"There's no room for sadism in wrestling. Maybe we should have a screening committee to ensure warped guys don't get licenses to wrestle. This goes beyond whether a guy is a rule-breaker or not. Maiming and crippling and enjoying it is not right. People like that shouldn't be allowed to wrestle."

RIC FLAIR

"Rick Steamboat makes me sick. I'm bored wrestling ugly babies like Steamboat. Until Ricky gets plastic surgery so he doesn't look like a baboon, I want him to stay away from me and my belt. Hope someone reads this to him."

FOR THOSE WHO remember, it was a painful scene.

Steve Keirn was wrestling in ring center. His moves were fluid and precise. His determination was unyielding. His steel body was decorated with lines of supple strength. He was winning.

But nobody was watching. Sure, the fans, faithful to their hero as always, were magnetically drawn to Keirn's every maneuver. They squeezed with every headlock and strained with every armbar.

However the working press was ignoring Steve Keirn. One writer was sipping his beer and chatting with a ringside official. Another journalist was walking toward the dressing room to interview a participant in the upcoming main event. A wrestling photographer was reloading his camera with film. "It's only Keirn wrestling," the photographer said, "what better time to take a break? Everyone knows Keirn is washed up."

The truth is as plain as Jimmy Carter's hometown: The press has paid absolutely no attention to Steve Keirn since the young scientific star suffered a broken leg several months ago. How can such a sensational star be left for dead when his every action indicates a full recovery from his crippling injury?

THE INJURY THEY WON'T LET STEVE KEIRN FORGET

The working press is as much a part of pro wrestling as the turnbuckle, timekeeper, and figure-four leglock. Because a crippling injury almost ruined his career, Steve Keirn is being ignored by wrestling journalists. Can he survive the frustrating cold-shoulder?

Perhaps the answer lies in the stubborn nature of the sport of professional wrestling. Walter Carsdale, a long-time wrestling observer and expert of the squared circle, explains it best.

"You see, when a wrestler is injured, everyone raises an eyebrow to begin with. The sport demands total physical perfection. Those not in shape will drown under the first wave. But Keirn wasn't only injured.

He was crippled. A broken leg has ended too many promising careers.

"And wrestling journalists are a funny breed. They are very steep in tradition. Sure the kid is wrestling as well as ever. But the writers don't care about that. As far as they are concerned, the story of Steve Keirn has already been written: 'Promising Young Superstar Destroyed By Unfortunate Injury.' Until he wins a title or does something unique, his obituary will stand."

So Keirn seems destined to grapple in relative obscurity. Without the fans, he would most likely lose hope. But the Displaying uncharacteristic behavior, Keirn bites the face of Jimmy Valiant (top). Steve works on Pak Song (above). Song helped break Keirn's leg. Keirn will forever seek vengeance by trying to whip Song (left and below).

“YOU PRESS PEOPLE have been giving me the big shaft all my career and I’m damn tired of it,” the broad-shouldered man shouted.

This capsule of resentful hate is none other than Wahoo McDaniel. He has a gripe. How valid it is will be determined by professional scrutiny.

“Professional what? You guys don’t know the first thing about professional this or that,” Wahoo charged. “I’ve read your stuff. Poor, poor and triple poor.

“But that doesn’t mean anything. I want to know why you never do stories on me. I want to know why you never put me on your lousy cover.”

Among Southern scientific wrestlers, McDaniel ranks high in popularity and skills. Though an explosive temper has denied him victory in title matches, he remains a superb and formidable wrestler.

Yes, Wahoo, we concede, gladly, that you are deserving of press attention. But the fault lies not in our typewriters, dear Wahoo, but in yourself.

“What do you mean, turkey? You saying I don’t want to get stories written about me?” Wahoo moved to within a few, menacing inches of the interviewer.

The relationship between athlete and press is a fragile one which requires cooperative nourishment on a regular basis. We give, you give.

WHY WAHOO MCDANIEL DOESN'T GET THE PRESS HE DESERVES

"You don't give, Wahoo.

"Lying dog-cutlets," Wahoo screamed, a mere two inches from the interviewer's face. "I held the Southern States title and you never approached me for a story. I've held a lot of tag team titles. Then you do a story on my partner.

"Of course, the classic

Wahoo McDaniel enjoys a beautiful relationship with the fans of wrestling. Unfortunately, the same cannot be said of his rapport with the press. A simple misunderstanding may be the cause of this unfortunate alienation example is the 'Wahoo McDaniel Loses His Temper And Gets Disqualified In A Title Match' story. How many of those have you done?" Wahoo yelled.

Concededly, there is a validity to some of your charges. Perhaps you have been neglected in the press. To a degree.

But ignoring your volcanic temper would be ignoring our journalistic duty. That we cannot do. However, that apparently is not the point.

"Handsome" Jimmy Valiant is doing well as a single wrestler (his brothers Jerry and Johnny hold the WWF tag team title). Valiant is working his way up in the ratings and hopes to land a match against WWF champion Bob Backlund in the very near future.

Rookie Skip Young has been receiving words of wisdom from veteran Pedro Morales in the Mid-Atlantic area.

Rookie Skip Young has been getting good pointers in the Mid-Atlantic area from new-found friend, former WWF champion Pedro Morales. "The guy is a genius," Skip says. "I've teamed with him twice and he's shown me moves that really fit my style. They're moves I never would have thought of. What a great man!"

No names mentioned, but scientific wrestlers in Portland, Oregon, getting quite upset with one of their comrades. The wrestler has been pulling too many practical jokes that have been less than funny. If he doesn't watch himself, someone is going to belt him!

Eddy Mansfield, the "Continental Lover," is feuding with California star Chavo Guerrero. Mansfield claims, "California is my town!" Chavo is a west coast mainstay and a fan favorite.

We finally heard from the "missing" Spiros Arion. He called to let us know it is no one's business where he is. He said his manager Fred Blassie sends his best wishes to all (maybe you can figure that one out—we can't).

"Continental Lover" Eddy Mansfield wants it known that Chavo Guerrero has offered him $10,000 if he will do one of two things: leave California, or manage Chavo. Eddy replies, "California is MY town. Let him leave. Number two, I will never manage a no-talent blob like Chavo Guerrero!"

Captain Lou Albano says he may also have another career. "I'm an occasional free lance show biz agent," he boasts. "I've managed that Elvis impersonator, Greg Peters, some biggies like Raquel Welch, The Fonz and Robert DeNiro, and others." Albano also says he does not want this information printed. Sorry Lou, we must have goofed!

From Ringside, this is Bill Apter. See you next time! □

The secret of teaching yourself music

Learn piano, guitar, etc., at home in spare time

It may seem odd at first—the idea of teaching yourself music. You might think you need an expensive private teacher to instruct you—and to tell you when you make a mistake.

But, the fact is, you don't. Thousands have taught themselves to play with the U.S. School of Music courses. By mail. So can you.

The secret lies in the step-by-step way our lessons teach you. Starting from scratch, they show you with simple words and pictures exactly what to do. You learn to play the right way — by note, from sheet music. Without gimmicks.

But how do you know you're doing it right? Easy. A lot of the tunes you'll practice first are simple songs you've heard before. Since you know how they're supposed to sound, you can tell when you've "got them right."

By the time you go on to more advanced pieces, you'll be able to tell if your notes and timing are right, even without having heard the songs. Before too long, you'll be playing different kinds of music: ballads, old favorites, show tunes, or hymns.

For more information about this convenient, economical way to learn music, mail the coupon. We'll send you our free booklet, and a free "Note-Finder." There's no obligation on your part.

began (only his close friends call him deuce), "let's get together for an informal chat."

Always obliging, Il told me to meet him at Crazy Shirley's, a famous New Orleans jazz joint, later in the day. We would talk as the clarinets and saxophones filled the hot, moist bayou air.

Crazy Shirley's was an exciting place. The waiters all knew Il, which surprised me. After all, I thought New Orleans was only a quick stop-over for the masked scientific star. Georgia was his real home.

"Yeah, I hang around here a lot, I guess," Il said hesitantly. "New Orleans is a great town. I've met a lot of great people, and the fans are super. I've been very happy since the first day I got here."

But what of Georgia, Il? The fans are dying to have you come back. Everyone wants to see you kick Masked Superstar's butt into the town dump. Has Georgia lost its native son?

Mr. Wrestling II driving to his favorite jazz hangout, "Crazy Shirley's," in New Orleans. Il misses Georgia but enjoys wrestling in Louisiana.

"I'll tell you, Steve," Il said, his voice serious and low. "This Georgia thing is killing me. I want to go back so badly. But things just aren't right. I took a few matches there recently. Things weren't the same.

"Sure, the fans responded in the same way. But the difference was in me. My feeling inside was strange."

Il swallowed hard. A misty glaze filled his large, soft eyes. His mask could not hide the emotions that were flowing from his insides.

"As a famous writer said a long time ago," Il continued, "'You can never go home again.'"

A tear began to trickle down his masked cheek. The tear rolled and wavered, then flowed and fell, just like the melancholy notes of the saxophone in the corner of Crazy Shirley's. □

Steamboat is a study of intensity in all his matches. If he stops worrying about Ric Flair, his career will continue to skyrocket.

stolen by Flair. You are flooded with vengeful thoughts. You want to prove your initial victory was no fluke.

Relax, Rick. By whipping a man like Flair and winning the title, you etched an eternal line into wrestling history. All wrestling rejoiced when you won. All wrestling mourned when you lost.

But you are bound by a weighty tradition. And that tradition coldly informs you that men who lose their U.S. titles rarely regain them. All they win is further aggravation, further torment and further disappointments.

You won it once. That was triumph enough. Leave Flair and the title he taints behind. Leave behind the obsession which is ravaging your soul. Leave behind the convulsive hate.

This leads to another point, one we fear may delay you from the stardom you should attain. It concerns your temper.

We don't suggest you disarm yourself. The fires which erupt and spread through you are the fires of ambition, of life. Without them, you would be altered. That goes beyond wrestling.

You must learn to channel your anger. Not curb it. Restraints will only erode your volcano. But now it is becoming counter-productive. You are getting disqualified much too often. You are forgetting the refined maneuvers which made you a star.

You're still young, Rick Steamboat. Now you must think and plan your moves. In a few years, they will be instinctual. But since you must rely on pre-planned thought, your irrational angers interfere with the mental process.

Thus, disqualifications result when there should be none.

Limitless lists of grappling triumphs are available to you. Titles, fame, money and adoration are yours. All you must do is seize them.

But don't grab them with quivering fingers. If your grip is too tight, you will crush the dreams you have.

Hold the dreams loosely in your hand. Allow yourself to grow without undue pressure, without subjecting yourself to brutality and insensitivity.

It is waiting for you, Rick. Now pursue the glory that should be yours.

Sincerely,
The Editors

"A wrestler," he said, "is a man alone. He's out to prove he's better than everyone else. When you get in that situation, each man you meet is your enemy."

"I've trusted two people in my life. One was a friend from college. He died. I still miss him. The other was Peter Maivia. He turned on me. Funny thing, I still miss him. A man needs a friend he can trust. People live a long time without things they need."

"I don't trust anyone now. I'll work with people, but I won't count on them. Everyone is a potential traitor. There are no exceptions."

How long can a man survive, always fearing a knife in his back?

"Wrestling," Bruno Sammartino noted, "is a sport where a man stands by himself. Backlund, or anybody, can stay on top without trusting anyone else. I can think of any number of champions who were successful without ever trusting anyone else. I don't think it's fair to name them, so don't ask.

"I could also name a few who collapsed from not trusting anyone. Which type is Backlund? That's anybody's guess. I think the kid can gut it out. He has a lot of courage. When he wrestled Maivia and beat him, that was the acid test. Bob should be able to handle anything else. But I can't say for sure. No one can."

So far, Backlund remains successful. Still, those who know him well are worried.

"Bob likes people," Tony Garea remarked, "and he needs company. After a match, we used to go to a diner and talk about wrestling and life until the sun came up. You've seen him when he gets excited. He loves talking about things, sharing experiences, being with friends. Now that he won't let himself enjoy those things, a good part of his life is destroyed. I don't know how long this can continue before something snaps. If he does snap, I don't want to be around. I can't imagine anything sadder."

Bob Backlund is a man alone at the top. It's where every wrestler dreams of being. Backlund's dream has turned into a nightmare. □

Abdullah, bitten by George "The Animal" Steele, had ceremonial salt rubbed in my eyes by Mr. Fuji and both my legs nearly broken by Greg Valentine.

Even stupid animals learn new tricks faster than I learned to use caution. Caution is now as much a part of my investigative tools as the figure-four leglock is to Greg Valentine's rulebreaking repertoire.

This brings me to another aspect of wrestling: Rulebreakers. Simply, I despise them. Not all of them, but most of them, especially the vicious ones. Those are the ones who will go to any lengths, to any extremes, to win a match. There is nothing that they would not do to secure victory. They will cripple, maim, blind, burn, use foreign objects and cheat their opponents in their crooked quest for victory. I regard them as licensed criminals, men who should be behind bars for the remainder of their miserable lives. Greg Valentine, Captain Lou Albano, Fred Blassie, Ric Flair, Abdullah the Butcher, The Sheik, Mr. Fuji, Tor Kamata and Ivan Koloff are just a handful of the men I despise most in wrestling. Whenever I write about them, objective as I am, I always write negatively.

There is nothing nice I can tell you about rulebreakers. Even if I investigated one of them thoroughly for a year, I'm sure I would not have one nice thing to tell you about him. So I don't try. What I report is the truth. By snooping and prying, I can find out information known only to a select few. My investigations have saved many top scientific wrestlers from certain destruction.

I have often been criticized for protecting and defending scientific wrestlers. Many fans ask me why I think scientific wrestlers are the answer to mankind's problems. The truth is, I don't. There are many scientific wrestlers whom I do not care for, and the feeling is mutual. Some of them have personalities that would make even the most hardened rulebreakers cringe. It is not that I worship scientific wrestlers. It is that I detest rulebreakers. I loathe them. They are a concorous growth on professional wrestling. I want to be the doctor who finds the cure.

My instruments for surgery, and my tools and methods of operation are vast. I use bugging devices to listen to wrestlers' conversations, practical jokes to upset them, ultra-expensive camera equipment to study them and psychological warfare to upset them. I even have a full-time makeup man on my staff who I feel is the best in the business. I need his services because most rulebreakers will not allow me within earshot. As another person, I have no problem approaching them, hassling them and spying on them. With a highly-powerful telphoto lens, I photograph objects as small as a dime from 100 yards away. I develop the picture, blow it up and read the date. I have used the camera many times to read letters or notes sent from one wrestler to another. The information I have stolen has saved many scientific grapplers from falling prey to the ruthless element in wrestling.

You can love me or you can hate me. You can join my crusade against rulebreakers or you can stand and fight me. You can hurt me, but you cannot intimidate me. Throw bombs at me and I will throw an even more destructive arsenal right back. But I promise you one thing: When the smoke has cleared, professional wrestling will be the ultimate winner. □ naivete' or foolish bravery, I had achieved something I felt was important.

That was my satisfaction. And that is a satisfaction every single participant in wrestling feels at one time or another.

It is felt by the promoters, the men who invest their hard-earned money into bringing what they believe is superior entertainment into a city. Seeing their proud smiles at the conclusion of an exciting evening confirms my opinion.

And it is felt by the wrestlers, good and bad. Whatever their methods, however I or you may disagree with them, they are at least striving for something. They are alive. They are involved. A Nick Bockwinkel or Sonny King is as committed as Bruno Sammartino or Bob Backlund.

Methods differ and goals change. Still, they are pursuing something.

Attendant with the goals of the wrestlers are the strategic geniuses known as managers. They, too, are committed. Again, their ways may be corrupt or noble, but they are dedicated.

Finally, there are the fans. I've met hundreds and hundreds of fans, from Dusty Rhodes supporters in Florida to Peter Maivia haters in Hartford. They are young and old, black and white.

Yet the unifying cord which bands them together in this unwieldy, fantastic group is their concern. They are interested, curious, demanding and passionate. Anyone who leaves a wrestling arena with eardrums perfectly functioning should clean out the wax.

I've been in places where the roar was literally deafening, the impassioned shouts contagious, even interfering with my journalistic detachment.

Yes, the state of wrestling is healthy. It will remain vital and growing as long as the vitamins of concern are fed daily into its systems. □

OFF THE TOP ROPE

Dear Mr. Shocket,

As a fan of Ivan Koloff for many years, I want to thank you for writing those nice things about him. Everyone else calls him a rulebreaker and boos him. I know he's the greatest around. It's the referees who keep him from winning a title.

Thanks for sticking up for the guys everyone else calls rulebreakers. You're the only wrestling columnist who will.

JACK DONNE
Birmingham, Al.

Dear Mr. Donne,

I consider it an honor to be able to praise Ivan Koloff in print. It's nice to know there are a few intelligent wrestling fans separated from the usual hordes of morons.

Dear Rat,

After what you wrote about Bruno Sammartino ("He's a clumsy insult to wrestling, Italians and the human race"), I think you should be shot. Everyone knows Bruno is a living legend.

I hope he meets you one day and breaks both your arms!

FREDDY GROVES
Waterloo, Ill.

Dear Freddy,

According to the dictionary, a legend is something accepted but not verifiable. I think that describes Bruno perfectly. As for breaking both my arms, Bruno wouldn't dare touch anyone before paying off a referee.

Dear Mr. Shocket:

While I rarely agree with what you say, I usually accept that you have a right to say it. But this does not give you the right to lie.

You said Bobby Heenan was framed. Everyone knows Heenan deliberately took a chair and hit the AWA president over the head. That is why Heenan was banned from the AWA.

Say what you want. As long it is the truth.

WARREN MALEST
Tulsa, Ok.

Dear Mr. Malest,

Heenan was framed. The truth is rarely what is seems. □

Dirty (censored):

You better not come to Minneapolis, not after what you said about Verne Gagne. Here's a man who's been a wrestling hero for decades, always showing how great the sport can be. What gives you the right to say, "Verne Gagne was a washed-up old man when he was young?"

I think you stink!

A VERNE GAGNE FAN
Minneapolis, Minn.

Dear Fan,

I earned the right to insult Verne Gagne by being a wrestling expert. From your letter, I assume you're an expert on stench.

MASCARAS & RHODES

re-enter the WWF.

Dusty Rhodes.

"I cannot bring myself to wish ill upon another man, especially one I admire as much as Rhodes," said Mascaras.

"Well, I wish ill on some men, like The Sheik. There must be some way to accommodate both my ambitions and Rhodes," Mascaras continued.

One peaceful resolution would occur if Rhodes graciously stepped aside to permit Mascaras to wrestle in the WWF. Think again.

"I know this is goin' to sound bad, but I leave and I come and I go when I want," Rhodes said. "I respect Mascaras. That has nothing to do with it.

"Maybe the federation couldn't take another scientific wrestler, another big fan favorite. All that matters is how Dusty Rhodes, the great "American Dream," wrestles. Hey, maybe Mascaras will suffer a bunch of defeats and then he won't be asked to come here," Dusty continued.

That is the crucial point. Should Mascaras suffer shocking defeats outside the WWF, his attractiveness would be diminished.

But the converse is also true. Should Rhodes fall victim too often, should the fans grow indifferent to the "American Dream," Rhodes might find himself squared circle.

Dusty Rhodes must lose. Often. Convincingly. Perhaps brutally.

"Mascaras wants to wrestle here?" chuckled Ivan Koloff. "If Mascaras wants Rhodes to leave, ask the masked moron to arrange a match between fatso Rhodes and myself. Guaranteed Rhodes will leave the region. On a stretcher."

Sometimes wrestlers are held to higher standards than they should be. After all, they are only human. Precisely those human faults which grate on Mil Mascaras and Dusty Rhodes may make them pray for the other's doom. □

ANDRE DEFEATS THE AWA

Tag team partners Ray Stevens and Pat Patterson try to eliminate Andre (above). A determined Andre manhandles Stevens (left). Andre was the winner of this memorable Battle Royal, which included many AWA superstars.

Jim Brunzell. Ray Stevens. Billy Robinson. Nick Bockwinkel. Those were just a few of the top men involved.

"I like to wrestle the best. If not the best, why bother?" Andre shrugged.

Actually, this Battle had grown out of a farce of a challenge delivered by Nick Bockwinkel several months ago.

"Andre is a big bag of hot air. If he had any guts, he'd come and try to take us all on. But he won't. I said if he had any guts," Bockwinkel said with a malicious grin.

Obscenity laws constrain us from printing Bockwinkel's reaction to Andre's acceptance of the challenge. Nothing prohibits us from reporting the results.

Andre clobbered em.

Bodies were flying out of the ring like drunks out of a saloon on a Saturday night.

"Man, is Andre tough," marvelled Billy Robinson.

"Is there a formula to whip him?" wondered Brunzell.

If there were an answer to that, the rulebreakers in wrestling would have formed a communal bank to jar and patent the stuff.

"Battle Royals are my forte," Andre said with a shrug. "What really got me going was Bockwinkel's challenge. I wouldn't have done it otherwise. But I wanted to show that loud-mouth what Andre the Giant is made of."

And for the final word.

"Take away his size and strength and what have you got?" asked Bockwinkel. □

BOCKWINKLE'S THRONE

predicted Bockwinkel's difficulties without Heenan are right, but for the wrong reasons.

Underrating Bockwinkel's physical abilities is hazardous. And erroneous. With or without a manager, Bockwinkel is a superior talent. Even without Heenan, the AWA champion possesses enough knowledge to plot his own tenacious strategies.

So it is not in the ring where Bockwinkel misses "The Brain." Outside the squared circle, the added responsibilities once assumed by Heenan are tiring Bockwinkel.

"It's a pain, handling the money, making road reservations, all the trivial but necessary garbage Bobby used to do," complained Bockwinkel.

"It's not like I can't handle my own affairs. I just can't be bothered with all this small-time stuff. I guess it's not so trivial. But it does take my mind off my matches," Bockwinkel admitted.

Purposeful disqualification in the face of imminent defeat is an old Bockwinkel trick. Now, more than ever, he is resorting to this ploy to keep his belt.

Strategies, refinement and concentration have been lacking from Bockwinkel's efforts.

He seems to tire more quickly, a fact supported by the hastier disqualifications. He seems unable to escape from holds with the brutal ease he once demonstrated. Even his infamous disdain for fans has lessened.

In short, there is a glassy glaze to Bockwinkel's eyes, the look of preoccupied worry.

However, there is little mercy in wrestling, especially for a man with so many enemies.

"Poor Bockwinkel. I tell you, my heart bleeds for him," sneered long-time enemy Billy Robinson.

"I think one of us will shove him off the mountain awful soon," predicted Verne Gagne.

It would be the ultimate irony if Bockwinkel were topped not because of a superior maneuver, but due to some trivial business matter. The day may be rapidly approaching. □

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

NICK BOCKWINKEL

"After a great deal of thought, I believe that Bobby Heenan should be made commissioner of a major wrestling alliance. Here's a guy with a lot of brains and moxie who's forced to listen to intellectual inferiors. This game has few greats. Me and Bobby are two of them. Wasting natural resources is criminal."

MIL MASCARAS

"I love my mask. It is like a part of me, like my hands, my legs, my torso. Yet it is not. My masks are beautiful. Men who do not wear a mask cannot appreciate its loveliness. Some try to demean my mask. Some try to unmask me. I would sooner die than permit my mask to be torn from my face."

IVAN KOLOFF

"The quality of American wrestlers is pathetic. This decadent culture encourages men to go soft and fat. Look at me. There is not an ounce of fat. Pure steely muscles ready to spring and attack. That is what the Soviet Union does for a man."

ARNOLD SKOALAND

"Managing a wrestler is difficult, but rewarding. Every night Bob [Backlund] goes out and successfully defends the title is an exhilarating and satisfying moment for me. I wouldn't want to do anything else." □

fans are not enough. The writers and photographers are the historians of the sport. Promoters, fans, and other wrestlers depend on the press to keep all the news flowing. And if Keirn's name disappears from all stories, he may soon disappear from all arenas.

Because the press is turning its back on Keirn, he may be run out of the sport.

"Hell, it's just not fair," a confused Keirn said. "You know, in my recent matches, I've been putting in a little extra effort. I've even sacrificed technical perfection so I might be more exciting. But it doesn't matter. I could whip Race, Backlund and Bockwinkel on the same night and then smash Andre the Giant and nobody would notice.

"I don't like to brag, but since my injury has been fully healed, I think my performances have been better than ever. I was talking to Mike (Keirn's best friend and tag team partner Mike Graham) and he agrees with me. He volunteered to talk to some of the writers and photographers to see if there was some kind of conspiracy, but I told him not to. Until this all changes, I guess I'll just have to keep wrestling and winning. If I don't go crazy in the meantime, I'm being treated like a damn unproven rookie!"

The seriousness of Steve Keirn's problem cannot be denied. He has seen glory. He has been a champion. Today he is forgotten. But the problem can easily be resolved. After all, you're reading this story, aren't you? □

Keirn desperately tries to break Song's legs (above and below). Will Keirn ever receive the press coverage he enjoyed before his leg was broken? Steve has been ignored since returning from the injury. But he is wrestling well.

WAHOO MCDANIEL

McDaniel and Crusher were once a successful tag team (above), but they never received fair press. McDaniel brawls with an expert, Killer Karl Kox (left). Wahoo has been a regional champion (below).

What is becoming apparent is the breakdown in communication between us. Be honest, Wahoo. How many times have you been rude to reporters?

"You guys annoy me," was the confession.

Okay. But unless we receive cooperation from you, we can't interview. And unless you pose, we can't photograph cover shots.

"Yeah, but . . ." Wahoo faltered.

We're not seeking sainthood. We make mistakes and we have the courage to admit when we do. But we need the cooperation of the wrestlers.

Some wrestlers absolutely refuse to talk to us, to be near us and to have anything other than a contemptuous relationship with us. We try not to permit this to poison our attitude toward them.

Then there are those who extend complete cooperation. Naturally, they receive a lot of press, most of it justified by their ring behavior and accomplishments.

And then there are those like Wahoo McDaniel.

"Yeah, me," Wahoo said.

These men have merited attention, both in and out of the ring. They share a violent dignity few can attain.

They are popular, they are tough. They deserve acclaim.

"Damn straight I do."

Then talk to us. Remember, we are only the connection for the fans. We are the rod through which this harshly sensitive flow must pass. Love and hate. Disdain and affection. Without the press, the bridge cannot be erected.

So talk to us, Wahoo. We're not villains. We know the fans want to read about you. Let's establish a positive relationship.

"Okay, I'll give it a try," McDaniel concluded. So will we. □
